DETAILED ACTION

This application has been examined. The claims 2-5, 8-9, 11-14, 17-18, 20-23, 26-27, 29-32, and 35-36 are pending. The examination results are as following.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 2, 4-5, 8-9, 11, 13-14, 18, 20, 22-23, 26-27, 29, 31-32 and 35-37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Robertson et al. (US 6,160,553) in view of Enokida et al. (US 6,335,746).

Regarding claims 2, 11, 20 and 29, Robertson et al. disclose in figure 9, a display method comprising the steps of dividing specific display area of a display apparatus into a first number areas (see figures 9-10, see multiple thumbnails images and each one associated with own function, see thumbnail 902 associated with Internet Explorer, see column 13, lines 19-62); generating data corresponding to a desired data file which comprises a number of pixels corresponding to the first number of a areas and displaying each of said divided areas in a mode corresponding to contents of said desired data file (see low or high resolution associated with pixels and bit color, see column 12, lines 45-62 and column 13, lines 53-57), and displaying each of the divided areas in a mode corresponding to contents of the desired data file (see figures 9-10, see multiple thumbnails images and each one associated with own function, see col. 13, lines 19-32), However, Robertson et al. does not disclose the generated data represents non-image data. Enokida et al. discloses a file system having the generated data represents non-image data (see col. 8, lines 61-67). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to implement the using of non-image data as taught by Enokida et al. into the system of Robertson et al. because this would display of a thumbnail image is not present.

Regarding claims 4, 13, 22 and 31, Robertson et al. discloses in figure 9, a displaying method displaying image information corresponding to a desired data file in a specific display area, comprising the steps of dividing said specific display area into a first number areas (see figures 9-10, see multiple thumbnails images and each one associated with own function, see thumbnail 902 associated with Internet Explorer, see column 13, lines 19-62); and displaying each of said divided areas in a mode corresponding to contents of said desired data file, wherein said first number is a number changed depending on the size of said data (see figure 10A, column 13, lines 19-56). However, Robertson et al. does not disclose the generated data represents non-image data. Enokida et al. discloses a file system having the generated data represents non-image data (see col. 8, lines 61-67) as discussed above.

Regarding claims 5, 14, 23 and 32, Robertson et al. discloses a displaying method, wherein said first number is a number changed in proportion to the size of said data file (see figure 10, column 13, lines 19-56).

Regarding claims 8, 17, 26 and 35, Robertson et al. discloses further, wherein boundaries among said divided areas are blurred after saturation of one or plurality of pixels in each of said divided areas is changed (see figure 10, column 13, lines 19-56).

Regarding claims 9, 18, 27 and 36, Robertson et al. discloses in figure 9, a displaying method displaying image information corresponding to a desired data file in a specific display area, comprising the steps of dividing said specific display area into a first number areas (see figures 9-10, see multiple thumbnails images and each one associated with own function, see thumbnail 902 associated with Internet Explorer, see column 13, lines 19-62); and displaying each of said divided areas in a mode corresponding to contents of said desired data file, wherein said desired data file is a text file, and wherein all or part of the contents of said text file is displayed in the form of text in such a manner to be overlapped to said image in formation (see figure 9).

Regarding claim 37, Robertson et al. discloses further, wherein a size of an area of the first number of areas is smaller than an area corresponding to a thumbnail image because the first number of areas is inside of the thumbnail image.

3. Claims 3, 12, 21 and 30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Robertson et al. (US 6,160,553) in view of Enokida et al. (US 6,335,746) and in view of Hoffman (US 5,761,655).

Robertson et al. and Enokida disclose every feature of the claimed invention, excluding the divided areas is changed by taking unit data quantities of said data file as data values of red, green, and blue dots of one or a plurality of pixels in each of said divided areas. Hoffman disclose in figure 5, the divided areas is changed by taking unit data quantities of said data file as data values of red, green, and blue dots of one or a plurality of pixels in each of said divided areas (see pixel process routine and RGB values, column 6, lines 63-67 and column 7, lines 1-13). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to implement the using data values of red, green, and blue of one or a plurality of pixels in each of said divided areas as taught by Hoffman into the system of Robertson et al. and Enokida et al. because this would provide the scan increment the original image is changed, and perform the operation of the routine of Red, Blue and Green color values.

Response To Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 2-5, 8-9, 11-14, 17-18, 20-23, 26-27, 29-32, and 35-37 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

4. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
